About the Seminar

Families are the fundamental units of society – and within them lie power dynamics that influence decision-making, resource distribution, gender roles, and ultimately, community development. This seminar explores how family power structures shape our progress toward the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) – from gender equality and quality education to health, poverty alleviation, and climate action.

Key Themes

- Understanding Family Power Structures: Hierarchies, roles, and cultural norms within households
- Gender and Generational Dynamics: How decision-making is influenced by age and gender
- Empowering Women and Youth: Shifting the balance for inclusive development
- Family as a Driver for SDG Implementation: Real-world case studies from rural and urban contexts
- Policy and Community Engagement: Strengthening family-based interventions for sustainable change
